

The Weeders
The Gazebo Garden Committee
June 11, 2013

The Weeders Executive Committee agreed to support the maintenance and improvement of a large garden near Ludington Library in Bryn Mawr in 2011. Last year, we managed to arrest the decline of the garden and maintained it reasonably well. In 2013, due to unusual weather and the time taken up with the GCA annual meeting at the end of April, there has been little progress on this project. I'm hopeful that this committee will be able to regroup from time to time during this summer to maintain the garden, which is actually in pretty good shape at the moment. The garden would greatly benefit from some further editing and the addition of more woody plants this fall and next spring.

I'd like to thank all of you who have come out to weed and prune and groom. I'm hoping there will be discussion of how best to schedule work at the garden and what we can realistically accomplish there.

For those of you who have not been involved up to now, this is an invitation to join our group, as you are able. For the time being, we will be in the garden on Mondays from 9 to 11. Because such a schedule doesn't work for everyone, we will be devising other ways to encourage groups of two or more to drop by the garden whenever convenient. Aside from being good citizens, there is another reward, in that the garden is way over-planted and many (if not all) of the perennials there need dividing. Come with pots!

If you'd like to be kept informed of what we're up to in the Gazebo Garden, please sign the sheet I'm passing around. More Weeders make things merrier!
